RUSSIA-UKRAINE WAR

IGP: No report of Malaysian mercenaries fighting for Russia

KUALA LUMPUR: Police have not received any report of Malaysians fighting as mercenaries for Russia in the eastern Ukraine region of Donetsk.

Inspector-General of Police Tan Ŝri Razarudin Husain said checks by federal Special Branch officers in Bukit Aman with their counterparts in Europe had turned up empty so far.

There has been no information about our citizens being hired by any country, including Ukraine, as has been reported," he said.

It was reported that the Ukrainian military claimed Russia was using mercenaries from various countries, including Malaysia, in its war against Ukraine.

The Ukraine National Resistance Centre disclosed that Malaysian mercenaries, accompanied by a translator and a former member of the disbanded Wagner private military firm, had been identified in Donetsk.

"The fighters are currently undergoing training at the designated ground," it claimed.

In addition to Malaysians, mercenaries from Cuba, Nepal, Belarus, Serbia and others had been observed fighting alongside the Russian armed forces, it said. Razarudin said police would not compromise with any Malaysian found to be acting as mercenaries or terrorists in other countries.

However, he said, mercenaries might not necessarily be seen as terrorists as they could be merely representing a certain nation and not a terror organisation.

"We can take stern action under the Special Measures Against Terrorism in Foreign Countries Act 2015 if there are Malaysian citizens who we find has committed acts of terror.

"We always exchange information with the government and Immigration Department. If we find any Malaysian has become a terrorist or a mercenary, we will void their passports."

E-invoice eases transactions

BEFORE

KUALA LUMPUR: The Inland Revenue Board (IRB) is set to implement the e-Invoice system on a mandatory basis for taxpayers with an annual income or sales exceeding RM100 million from

For taxpayers in other income categories, this will be enforced in phases from July 1 next year. This shift reflects the government's commitment to adopting digital advancements and reducing dependence on manual procedures, propelling Malaysia towards a digital economy.

The implementation of e-Invoice not only provides a seamless experience to taxpayers, but also improves business efficiency through invoicing process automation and by reducing administrative tasks, as well as increasing tax compliance across businesses of all sizes.

Traditionally, businesses issue hardcopy or softcopy receipts, bills or invoices to record transactions, such as the sale of products or services.

For tax purposes, both the business (supplier) and consumer (buyer) must retain proper transaction records, either in paper or digital form, as proof of expense or revenue.

With the implementation of the e-Invoice system, businesses will be mandated to issue e-Invoices for all transactions.

With the rollout of e-Invoice, two key scenarios emerge for businessto-consumer transactions:

Scenario 1: When the consumer requires an e-Invoice from the business Scenario 2: When the consumer does not require an e-Invoice If a consumer requests for an e-Invoice the business must obtain the required information from the consumer to facilitate the issuance of an e-Invoice. An e-Invoice that has been validated by IRB in near real-time can be used as the consumer's proof of expense to substantiate a particular transaction for tax

To facilitate compliance with e-Invoice requirements and ease the burden on both businesses and consumers. IRB allows businesses to aggregate transactions with consumers who do not need an e-Invoice into a monthly consolidated e-Invoice for IRB's validation, within seven calendar days after the month end.

Where the consumer does not require an e-Invoice, the business will issue a regular receipt or invoice to the consumer and it will not be required to be submitted for IRB's validation.

In the event the consumer requires an e-Invoice after receiving a regular receipt or invoice from the business, the consumer can request for an e-Invoice from the business within the same month of the transaction.

For more information on e-Invoice, taxpayers can access and download the e-Invoice general and specific guidelines through the IRB official portal.
